Here's What Our Sellers Are Saying

Words cannot fully express the excellence of service I received with the Marti Hampton Team. Beyond the friendliness and understanding, Marti's team take away so much of the stress associated with home selling and buying. Both houses we sold were under contract before we could even think about it, at the top end of the market value.

- CHRIS D.

Our home listed on Friday and was sold by Sunday, at well above our asking price! We were so impressed with Marti's Team helping us every step of the way - from staging and photography to listing, to all of the details and professional service we received. As stressful as moving can be, her team took care of the stress and everything has gone exactly as she told us it would!

— BOB T.

We went from "Coming Soon" to a signed contract in 6 days. I still have a hard time believe this is real. Marti and her team are confident, caring, compassionate, I could go on and on. I feel that Marti is truly looking out for me, and that just means the world.

— JOAN F.

Guide to Selling Your Home

How we will work together to get your home sold quickly and for the best possible price

First thing's first. Know the lingo.

Seller Timeline

AFFIDAVIT OF TITLE	a written statement essentially clarifying that the recipient of this document possesses the property by title. It includes everything from your marital status to relevant dates
CAPITAL GAINS	If you have a high "capital gain", you can celebrate; it means you've received a certain percentage of "profit" from the sale of your home because the sale was above the initial purchase price plus any fees
CERTIFICATE OF TITLE	a document, signed by a title examiner, stating that a seller has an insurable title to the property
CHAIN OF TITLE	part of what's important in real estate is knowing the "timeline" of any piece of property so that there's no confusion of who owns what and when. The "chain of title" is that timeline, showing all previous owners and conveyances from the beginning of the construction of the home
COMPARABLE	when evaluating the value of your property, looking at similar homes and seeing how they've been priced on the market would determine how you will price yours. Those homes are "comparables"
COMPARATIVE MARKET ANALYSIS (CMA)	a survey of the attributes and selling prices of comparable homes on the market or recently sold; used to help determine a correct pricing strategy for a seller's property
CONTINGENCY	a condition in a contract that must be met for the contract to be binding
DUE DILIGENCE	a buyer's opportunity to engage in a process of further investigation of the property and the transaction as described in the Offer to Purchase form for an agreed period of time
EARNEST MONEY	a negotiated deposit (usually 1-2% of purchase price) given to an agreed-upon escrow agent
LIEN	a security claim on a property until a debt is satisfied
LISTING CONTRACT	an agreement whereby an owner engages a real estate company for a specified period of time to sell a property, for which, upon the sale, the agent receives a commission
MARKET PRICE	the actual price at which a property is sold
MARKET VALUE	the price that is established by present economic conditions, location and general trends
SURVEY	measurement of lot lines, dimensions and positioning to determine how much property you have
TITLE	written evidence of the right to or ownership in property. In the case of real estate, the documentary evidence of ownership is the title deed that specifies in whom the legal estate is vested and the history of ownership. Title may be acquired through purchase, inheritance, devise, gift, or through foreclosure of a mortgage
UNDER CONTRACT	when you stipulate this in a listing, you ensure that a buyer has the exclusive rights on a contract for the purchase of the house. No buyer can make a better offer in the hopes of stealing the bid.

Based on your individual home preparation goals, your listing agent may recommend you to our in-house staging adviser, who will provide a complimentary 1-hour professional home staging or virtual staging consultation.

We highly recommend that you consider a pre-inspection. The Due Diligence period —mandatory in the NC Bar Association Real Estate Contract — benefits the buyer, not the seller. This is the time that most home sales fall apart.

When a sale does not close, it weakens the seller's position. With a pre-inspection, a homeowner can better be prepared for issues or repairs before the buyer's inspection is performed. This allows a seller and their agent to negotiate as much as possible up front. Few surprises are best when going through a Due Diligence period where buyers have an easy out.

Listing Agent

- Recommends a home inspection and staging
- Provides a list of trusted vendors to handle any repairs, maintenance, or updates needed
- Schedules your complimentary 1-hour professional home staging consultation

You

- Permit us to schedule a home inspection and review results carefully with the home inspector
- Obtain estimates for each issue which would affect a sale
- Repair or disclose all issues brought to your attention
- Review your property disclosure, and disclose any new issues that you will not be repairing

5: Marketing

Leveraging our in-house marketing and advertising team, your listing agent will target the right audience across multiple channels through cohesive branding.

Our Team will design captivating print and digital collateral to best showcase your home.

Marketing Team

- / Develop a highly-targeted digital advertising campaign
- / Design stunning print collateral to best showcase your home
- / Promote listing throughout various social media channels
- / Broadcast listing via email campaign to brokers and highly targeted prospective buyers

6: Showings

First impressions are lasting impressions. While your listing agent might initially spark a buyer's attention with a property listing, it's how your home shows in person that will determine whether they can truly make your home their home.

Use the checklist below to make sure your home is ready to impress.

Together, you will consider your response: accept the offer, reject the offer, or make a counter offer.

8: Negotiating

Countering an offer begins negotiation. In the event that there are obstacles, your agent is an expert negotiator, your strongest ally and the best resource for solutions based on experience with market trends.

For successful negotiation, please disclose everything to your agent, ask questions, respond quickly, be cautious with contingencies, stay calm and rely on your real estate professional.

Congratulations! You're Under Contract. 🔶 Here are our next steps.

Guide to Closing

How we will work together to close on your home while protecting your interests

Congratulations! Your home is now Under Contract for buyer's due diligence. What's next?

We are thrilled that you've reached this milestone. Our entire team is working towards a successful closing for your home. Nevertheless, we recommend that you continue to allow your home to be shown to other buyers during the buyers' due diligence period.

Please use this guide to familiarize yourself with the next stage of your escrow: buyers' due diligence, inspections, due diligence repair agreements, and final settlements and closing. It is our job to make the closing process as seamless as possible. Closings can be stressful, but with proper preparation, we can mitigate all anxiety.

This is an overview of the steps that we take to protect your best interests. The recommendations in this guide were accumulated through thousands of successful closings. With over 50 years of combined experience, our closing team ensures that each of our clients has a smooth, efficient and rewarding transaction.

What happens next?

With the Marti Hampton Closing Team, you will have a full department of licensed real estate experts working with you throughout your transaction. Our team will guide you through the due diligence period, your escrow and final settlement.

Closing details demand hundreds of follow-up tasks. While agents are working at providing an expert level of in-person care to sellers, it can be difficult to balance the daily rigors of paperwork and follow-up in a timely fashion during regular business hours. We employ a full time closing team to ensure that all time sensitive tasks are accounted for and managed.

Tips

- / The under contract sign will go up during the due diligence period.
- / During the buyer's due diligence, please start preparing for your move. The buyers still have the opportunity to cancel the contract up until the due diligence expiration date, only losing the due diligence fee. The best option is to save moving decisions that require large deposits until after the due diligence period. If buyers cancel after this period, they will likely lose both the due diligence funds and earnest funds.
- / Once your home is reported as under contract in MLS, your showings will slow, but we recommend that your home be kept in showing condition for the best possible impression on the buyers' appraiser and other potential buyer showings.

Offer to Purchase and Contract

The Offer to Purchase agreement is used for nearly all residential real estate sales. Its recent revision makes it very protective of the buyer. The biggest change is the addition of the due diligence period. During this period, the buyer may terminate the offer without reason. They will lose nothing except for their due diligence fee. Valuable momentum and reputation of the home could be lost if a sale falls through.

Following the due diligence period, there is less chance of "fall-through" for the seller; although a small percentage of home sales still fail to close. The seller's only recourse to recoup losses is to retain both the due diligence fee and earnest money. This applies only if closing does not occur through no fault of the seller.

Your offer also includes a settlement/closing date on page 2. Unless otherwise stated, the buyer will expect to come to closing to receive keys to your vacant home, with all repairs completed. The home will be cleaned and in the same or better condition as they submitted their offer.

If you live in the home, please request the notice from the buyer's lender before you vacate your home. We want you to have as little liability during this time as possible. Please take time to review your entire contract carefully.

Due Diligence Checklist

As soon as both parties sign the contract for your home, you are entered into the due diligence period. It's time to get down to the nittygritty of home inspections and repair requests.

To get through due diligence smoothly, you need to understand exactly what will happen and what your options are at each stage of the process.

- Receive letter of loan pre-qualification for the buyer
- Buyer agent or inspector will make an appointment for inspections (i.e: HVAC, radon, termite, well & septic if applicable)
- Make sure that ALL utilities are on and all pilot lights are lit
- Make sure that all crawl spaces and any other locked areas are open and accessible for inspectors
- Receive the inspection from buyer and request for repairs. Your closing coordinator will go over requests for repairs with you
- Order any estimates needed
- Decide on response to buyers' repair requests
- Buyer and seller agree on repairs and sign due diligence repair agreement or amendment
- Hire contractor for agreed upon repairs if applicable
- Complete repairs prior to closing
- Provide receipts for repairs from licensed contractor
- Buyer's re-inspection of completed repairs

Pre-Inspection Checklist

You will want to prepare for the buyer's home inspection by reviewing the most common problems found by home inspectors and address any that have not been addressed.

Electrical — You should not have open junction boxes in the attic and open splices in/or not in boxes. Do not have a three prong receptacle on a two wire system. Any light bulbs burned out will be asked to be replaced

- Repair damaged roof vent boots
- from the home
- Windows should not be painted shut
- Repair voids in mortar between bricks in fireplace
- Ensure smoke detectors are operational
- Ensure interior doors are latching properly and not sticking/scraping floor
- Repair any moisture damage around windows or any wood rot
- Water heater pressure release valve should be draining within 6" off the floor
- Dishwasher should be properly secured to kitchen counter
- Foundation vents should be operational
- Install vapor barrier in crawlspace
- Remove wood or wood debris under deck and crawl space

Correct uncleaned and overflowing gutters. Down spouts should be directed away

Beginning Escrow

You've made it through the due diligence period! Read the following tasks to continue to prepare for your closing.

- / Please provide us with your forwarding address, new emails and any phone numbers
- / We recommend that our sellers DO NOT attend closings in order to reduce last minute buyer requests or negotiations
- / Remember that after closing, the attorney must record BEFORE releasing your funds. Avoid late afternoon closings. If you are picking up your check from the attorney, please call the attorney first to ensure that your check will be ready
- / If you will not be in town for closing, let us know NOW if you would like your closing check to be wired into your bank account after closing or if you would like your check sent by overnight express mail. If you choose to have the funds wired, we will need a voided check or deposit slip

Before Closing Checklist

- Notify your mortgage company of closing date
- Obtain moving estimates
- Hire a mover
- Contact utilities services to cancel one business day after closing in case of closing delays
- Keep phone numbers available in the event of further potential delays
- Cancel homeowner's insurance services for 3rd business day after closing
- Clean home, remove all debris and vacate BEFORE closing
- Leave ALL keys inside the home or give to closing coordinator
- Leave relevant service warranties in kitchen
- Leave garage openers in kitchen
- Forward all repair bills and/or receipts to closing coordinator
- Review final closing statement with your closing coordinator prior to closing

Final Walkthrough & Closing

The buyers will take advantage of their right to conduct a final walkthrough before closing. This usually occurs on the day before or the day of closing, and the buyer's preference is to walk through a vacant home.

If they choose to do their walkthrough the day before closing, it is possible that you will be only partially moved out. If this happens, the buyer may choose to return just before closing to ensure there is no damage during your move out. This walkthrough is to determine that the home is in the same or better condition as when they made the offer on your home.

The final walkthrough is not another inspection. However, please note, if any structural/mechanical equipment fails before the hour of closing, it is still the seller's responsibility to repair. Take advantage of the final walkthrough to make a good final impression.

Closing Day: Seller Proceeds

If you are expecting proceeds, your closing check will be available when the closing attorney records at the courthouse after the in-office closing paperwork has been executed. Therefore, if your home closes in the morning, most likely the closing will be recorded around noon and your check will be ready early afternoon. If your home closes in the afternoon, it will be ready either late in the day or first thing the next morning. If you are planning to pick up your check, call the closing attorney to verify your check is there before making the trip.

Your home is NOT closed until it is recorded and physically completed at the county courthouse. Because there can be unplanned delays at closings, we recommend that you do not cancel your homeowner's insurance until you have received your check and several days have passed to allow your mortgage company to receive the payoff for your loan.

Congratulations!

Go ahead and take a bow. Jump for joy. Bring out the champagne. You've earned it!

Please do not hesitate to reach out to our team should you have any questions or concerns during or after your home selling process.
